Asset Transfers

Supersedes: MA 404-1 (07/01/05) and MA 404-4 (08/01/00); Bulletin B76 (03/30/06)

► References: 42 U.S.C. §1396p (c)(1)(F) through (I) and 42 U.S.C. 1396p (e); ARM 37.82.101 and .417

► GENERAL RULE--An otherwise eligible Medicaid applicant or recipient is restricted from receiving Medicaid coverage of institutionalized or Home and Community Based Service/Waiver (HCBS/waiver) services if a disqualifying transfer of assets has occurred. A disqualifying transfer of assets occurs when:

1. assets were transferred for less than fair market value,
2. the transfer occurred during the look-back period, or after Medicaid eligibility has been established, and,
3. the transfer was not an exempt transfer described in "Exempt Asset Transfers" below.

In addition to selling and giving away property, disqualifying asset transfers may include, but are not limited to, actions such as:

- establishing a trust,
- forgiving a debt without obtaining fair market value,
- decreasing the extent of ownership interest in an asset,
- forfeiting or assigning the right to a stream of income,
- making an unsecured loan,
- any other action by which an individual gives up or limits his or her rights to or interest in an asset, or in some instances,
- purchasing an annuity.

► LOOK-BACK PERIOD

From the day the institutionalized or HCBS/waiver client applies for Medicaid, the look-back period for transfers made from 8/11/1993 through 2/7/2006 is:

1. thirty-six (36) months; or
 2. sixty (60) months for transfers to trusts;
 3. sixty (60) months for transfers from trusts to or for the benefit of people or entities other than the Medicaid applicant/recipient(s)--- see example, next page.

Example:

► From the date the institutionalized or HCBS/waiver client applies for Medicaid, the look-back period for transfers made on or after 2/8/2006 is:

1. sixty (60) months for ALL transfers, including payments from trusts to or for the benefit of people or entities other than the Medicaid applicant/recipient(s).

NOTE: Asset transfers for less than fair market value made after application are also subject to penalty.

The look-back date is established based on the first application for Medicaid while an individual is also institutionalized or pursuing waiver, regardless of whether the application is approved or denied (for any reason, including failure to verify information). Only one look-back date is established for each applicant, regardless of multiple periods of institutionalization or multiple applications. Once the look-back date is established, all transfers of assets after that date are subject to evaluation and penalty.

► If retroactive coverage is requested, the lookback period is calculated from the first of the retroactive month for which the Medicaid application is submitted, regardless of in which month the application is submitted (i.e., an application is submitted 10/15/05 and retroactive benefits are requested for July 2005---the lookback period for this application will begin 7/1/02, or 36 months prior to the first month of requested coverage). The penalty period for a transfer made on or after 2/8/06 may begin in the retroactive month if all of the criteria to begin the penalty period are met in the retroactive months (see MA 404-2).

ASSETS

Assets include all income and resources the client and/or the client's spouse:

1. owns;
2. is entitled to receive;
- 3. is entitled to receive the benefit of (such as being a beneficiary of a trust);
4. would be entitled to receive except for some action or inaction which results in failure to obtain the asset.

NOTE: Those assets that comprise the client's general resource allowance ($2,000 limit) are NOT subject to the asset transfer provisions.

►► PURCHASE OF AN ANNUITY

The purchase of an annuity by either an applicant/recipient or by a community spouse may be considered to be an uncompensated transfer of assets in certain circumstances.

An annuity purchased on or after February 8, 2006 by a Medicaid applicant or recipient or community spouse will be considered an uncompensated asset transfer (subject to rebuttal) when determining eligibility for nursing home or HCBS waiver services unless:

1. The annuity payments are made to the Medicaid applicant/recipient or community spouse;
2. The periodic scheduled payments are required to be paid on at least an annual basis;
3. The annuity requires equal payments throughout the contract (e.g., no deferred or balloon payments at any point during the payment period);
4. The payment schedule is actuarially sound (the equal period payments are based on expectation of a full payout of the contract within the annuitant's life expectancy);
5. The annuity is irrevocable;
6. The annuity is non-assignable; AND
7. The State of Montana Medicaid Program is named as the irrevocable first position residual beneficiary of the annuity.

NOTE: The Medicaid applicant/recipient may name a community spouse, a minor child, or a blind/disabled adult child as the primary beneficiary before the State of Montana Medicaid Program. The community spouse can name only a minor child or blind/disabled adult child as the primary beneficiary before the State of Montana Medicaid Program. However, if such an individual is named as a beneficiary in a position primary to the State of Montana Medicaid Program, the State of Montana Medicaid Program must be named as the first position beneficiary if the spouse or child disposes of any remainder for less than fair market value. In other words, the State of Montana Medicaid Program becomes entitled to the remaining balance of the annuity if the spouse or child attempts to liquidate or transfer their remainder interest in the annuity for less than fair market value.

An annuity purchased by a Medicaid recipient or community spouse after eligibility has been determined must report the purchase of the annuity under normal change reporting requirements, and must amend the annuity to meet the above requirements in order to continue to meet Medicaid eligibility requirements. If a community spouse refuses to amend his/her annuity to make the State of Montana Medicaid Program the primary remainder beneficiary, the purchase of the annuity will be considered an uncompensated asset transfer and will result in a penalty being applied to the nursing home spouse, regardless of any other provisions excepting penalties for asset transfers made by the community spouses after Medicaid has been established by the nursing home spouse.

TREATMENT OF JOINTLY OWNED ASSETS

When an asset is held by a client solely, in common with another via joint tenancy, tenancy in common, joint ownership, or a similar arrangement, the asset (or portion of the asset) is considered to be transferred when any action is taken that reduces the client's ownership or control of the asset.

Example 1: Daughter's name is included on client's checking account. The account still belongs to the client. If the daughter withdraws funds for any purpose other than to provide for the client, she has removed the funds from the client's control. Thus, there is an asset transfer.

Example 2: Daughter's name is placed on the home title, which limits the client's right to sell or otherwise dispose of the home. Because the addition of daughter's name on the title requires daughter's agreement to the home sale or disposal where no agreement was necessary before, adding daughter's name to the title constitutes an asset transfer.

Example 3: During the 90-day period during which assets allocated to the community spouse are to be transferred from the nursing home spouse to the community spouse, the community spouse removes the nursing home spouse's name from their home and from a joint CD. In place of the nursing home spouse's name, the community spouse adds his daughter's name. The substitutions of the daughter's name for the nursing home spouse's name on the deed to the home and on the bank's CD records are uncompensated asset transfers. The community spouse must simply remove the nursing home spouse's name so the community spouse has full ownership. Substituting another's name is a transfer of the nursing home spouse's assets to a third party.

WHO TRANSFERRED ASSET

An asset transfer by the client and/or the client's spouse must be evaluated as if the client made the transfer. Additionally, assets will be considered transferred by the client or the client's spouse when they are transferred by:

1. a parent;
2. a guardian;
3. a court; or
4. anyone acting on behalf of, or at the direction of, the client or the client's spouse (e.g., an attorney).

NOTE: Assets refused by the client, spouse, etc. are considered to be transferred assets. For example, waiving pension income, waiving the right to inherit, not accepting or accessing an injury settlement, or a surviving spouse's failure to seek his/her elective share of a deceased spouse's estate (see MA 906-1).

EXEMPT ASSET TRANSFERS

Do not evaluate asset transfers when:

1. The asset was transferred to a spouse prior to establishment of nursing home or waiver eligibility under spousal impoverishment policies.
2. The asset was transferred to a minor or adult child who is blind or disabled according to Social Security criteria.
3. The asset transferred is the client's home and title to the home is transferred to:
 - a. the spouse;
 - b. a child under age twenty-one (21);
 - c. an adult child who has been determined to be blind or permanently disabled according to Social Security criteria;
 - d. a child (regardless of age) who:
 - (i) resided with the client for two (2) years prior to the client's nursing home admission; and
 - (ii) provided care which permitted the client to reside at home; or
 - e. a sibling who:
 - (i) has equity interest in the home; and
 - (ii) continually resided in the home for at least one (1) year prior to the client's nursing home admission.
3. The asset was transferred exclusively for a purpose other than qualifying for medical assistance.

- NOTE: Estate planning is a process designed to help manage and preserve a person's assets while alive and to conserve and control their distribution after death. For purposes of the determination of Medicaid eligibility, "estate planning" actions must be considered as specifically for preserving assets from long term care costs via Medicaid.
- 5. The asset(s) was transferred into a Special Needs Trust (see MA 402-3).
6. The asset was transferred by the community spouse, was an asset allowed to the community spouse as part of the Community Spouse Resource Maintenance Allowance, and was transferred AFTER Medicaid was approved and opened for the institutionalized spouse. (If assets are transferred by community spouse via a will and the community spouse pre-deceases the institutionalized spouse, see MA 906-1). Or,
- NOTE: Transfers of any assets that are made by the community spouse prior to spousal impoverishment policies being applied to the couple will be evaluated for uncompensated transfer against the spouse who is the Medicaid applicant/recipient.
7. Denial of coverage or eligibility would cause an undue hardship. An undue hardship exists only when:
- (a) the asset was transferred as a result of fraud, misrepresentation or coercion perpetrated against the applicant and/or the applicant's spouse; and
 - (b) the applicant and/or the applicant's spouse has exhausted all legal recourse to recover the transferred resource. Exhausting all legal recourse includes, but is not necessarily limited to, filing a civil court action and pursuing the civil action to its conclusion. The requirement to exhaust all legal recourse is not satisfied by the filing of criminal charges against the person who received the assets by means of fraud, misrepresentation or coercion.

DETERMINING UNCOMPENSATED VALUE

An asset is transferred for less than fair market value if the compensation received by the individual is less than the fair market value of the asset on the date of transfer or contract for sale (if earlier). Fair market value means the price of the asset on the open market.

Compensation means money, real or personal property, food, shelter or services:

1. received by the applicant/recipient or spouse at or after the time of transfer in exchange for the resource IF the compensation was provided under a legally enforceable agreement in effect at the time of the transfer, OR
2. received prior to the transfer if they were provided under a legally enforceable agreement whereby the applicant/recipient agreed to transfer the asset or otherwise pay for such items.

Compensation also includes payment or assumption of a legal debt owed by the applicant/recipient in exchange for the asset.

Compensation does not include services or gifts previously provided to the applicant/recipient out of love or concern without expectation or promise of payment.

The value of compensation in the form of a promise of future services, food, or shelter is based on fair market value for the length of time the client can reasonably be expected to receive such support or maintenance from the date of the transfer or contract, whichever is earlier (see MA 008, "Life Expectancy Table").

Example 1: At 80 years of age, Betty transferred her home to Wilma, a licensed practical nurse. In exchange for the home, Wilma agreed to provide daily nursing and homemaker services. At the time of transfer, the home's market value was $50,000. Betty is expected to live another 9.09 years (see MA 008, "Life Expectancy Table"). The services' current market value is $20,000 per year X 9.09 years = $181,800. Betty can be expected to receive more than fair market value in exchange for her home.

Example 2: As Jane's health declines, her daughters provide her with services such as grocery shopping, housekeeping and transportation, and take care of her often when she is unwell, but none of them live with her. The services and care continue, without any promise of payment or compensation, for three years. Prior to Medicaid application, Jane transfers her certificates of deposit to the daughters. The reason given at application is for payment for the care her children provided to her over the past several years. Because the care was provided without promise of payment, the care that Jane's daughters provided to her over the past three years cannot be considered to be compensation for the value of the CDs.

The uncompensated value of transferred property is the fair market value of the property, less any compensation received according to the policy outlined above.

The fair market value of a stream of income is considered to be the amount of the annual payments multiplied by the life expectancy of the person upon whose lifetime the payments are based.

Example: Guido is entitled to payments of $300 per month for the remainder of his life from an annuity. Guido is 85 years old. The value of this "stream of income" is $300/month X 12 months X 5.27 (Guido's life expectancy per MA 008), or $18,972.

NOTIFICATION

The applicant must be advised of any disqualifying transfer penalty determination before eligibility is approved or denied. The advising notice must:

1. inform the individual that an uncompensated transfer has been identified;
2. give the value of the resource transferred; and
3. explain the client's right to rebut the presumption that the transfer was made to qualify for assistance.

If the client does not respond to the notification within fifteen days, the eligibility case manager must assume that no rebuttal will be received, and proceed with establishing and applying the asset transfer penalty.

TRANSFER REBUTTAL STATEMENT

The client may rebut the presumption that a resource was transferred for the purpose of establishing eligibility for Medicaid. In that case, it is the client's responsibility to present convincing evidence that the asset was transferred exclusively for some other reason. The client's statement must include and be accompanied by:

1. the reason(s) the asset was transferred;
2. documentation of attempts to sell the asset at fair market value;
3. documentation that fair market value was received or the reason for accepting less than fair market value;

4. documentation of means of self-support after the transfer; and
5. statement of relationship to the person to whom the asset was transferred.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE

Factors which may indicate a transfer was not made to qualify for assistance include:

1. The occurrence of one of the following after the asset has been transferred:
 - a. traumatic onset of disability;
 - b. diagnosis of a previously undetected disabling condition;
 - c. unexpected loss of other resources which would have precluded eligibility for medical assistance; or
 - d. unexpected loss of income which would have precluded eligibility for medical assistance.
- ▶ 2. Total countable assets (including the uncompensated value of the transferred asset) fall below the general resource limit during each of the months comprising the appropriate lookback period;
3. The transfer was court-ordered in a contested court action; or
- ▶ 4. The asset was transferred as a result of fraud, misrepresentation or coercion perpetrated against the applicant and/or the applicant's spouse, and the applicant and/or the applicant's spouse have exhausted all legal recourse to recover the transferred resource. Exhausting all legal recourse includes, but is not necessarily limited to, filing a civil court action and pursuing the civil action to its conclusion. The requirement to exhaust all legal recourse is not satisfied by the filing of criminal charges against the person who received the assets by means of fraud, misrepresentation or coercion.

NOTE: The transferred property is considered inaccessible as long as the civil suit has been filed with a court of competent jurisdiction and is pending but is being actively pursued.
